A Racking Cough

Cured by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Mrs. P. D. HALL, 217 Genesee St., Lockport, N. Y., says: "Over thirty years ago, I remember being my father describe the wonderful curative effects of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. During a recent attack of La Grippe, which assumed the form of a catarrh, soreness of the lungs, accompanied by an aggravating cough, I used various remedies and prescription. While some of these medicines partially alleviated the coughing during the day, none of them afforded me any relief from that specific cough, the lungs which would seize me the moment I attempted to lie down at night. After ten or twelve such nights, I was nearly in despair, and had almost decided to sit up all night in my easy chair, and procure what sleep I could in that way. It then occurred to me that I had a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I took a spoonful of this preparation in a little water, and was able to lie down without coughing. In a few moments, I fell asleep, and awoke in the morning greatly refreshed and feeling much better. I took a teaspoonful of the Pectoral every night for a week, then gradually decreased the dose, and in two weeks my cough was cured."

HOW A PUZZLE WAS SOLVED.

When you want a certain article, you want the best make of that article, don't you? But how to determine which make is best is what puzzles you, isn't it? And when the puzzle is solved for you, by authority which cannot be questioned, you are pleased, aren't you? Well, we will tell you about that puzzle that has been solved for the people of the whole world, wouldn't you?

At the Universal Exposition of 1889 at Paris, France, the best sewing machines of the world, including those of America, were in competition. They were passed upon by a jury composed of the best foreign mechanical experts, two of whom were the best sewing machine manufacturers of France. This jury, after exhaustive examination and tests, adjudged that the Wheeler & Wilson machines were the best of all, as awarded that exposure the highest prize, the GRAND PRIX D'HONNEUR, giving only gold, silver and bronze medals.

The French Government, as a further recognition of superior quality, decreed that the Wheeler & Wilson machines were the best in the world today.

Now, when you want a sewing machine, if you do not get the best, it will be your own fault.

Ask your sewing machine dealer for the No. 9, Wheeler & Wilson machine, and if he does not keep them, write to us for descriptive catalogue, prices and terms.

The Viking ship cannot come to St. Paul after all on account of low water in the Mississippi river.

The weather forecast says we are to have warm south winds to-night and to-morrow. Look out for a cold wave.

Two students in a Catholic seminary were burned to death on Thursday in a fire that consumed the building at Madison, Wis.

Treasurer of the police department at Chicago has stolen $3,500 and confessed the crime on account of his conscience troubling him. Whether are we drifting.

The starting statement has been made by Gov. Altgeld that "there are no anarchists in Illinois." If the assertion was true the people of Chicago would rest easier.

In St. Paul and Minneapolis the daily newspapers have turned their attention to capturing criminals. The police department will soon be abolished in the two cities if this thing continues much longer.

A MOVEMENT is on foot at Topeka by the state officials to have Mrs. Mary Lease removed as president of the state board of charities because she has openly charged the state administration with being corrupt. Mary's political bias has not been done by.

The removal of Hall, Voling and Stacy from the Chippewa pine land examiners by the interior department for incompetency has made room for three Minnesota democrats and Maj. Baldwin has secured the appointment of N. W. Wolf, of Motley, J. C. Smith of Oak Grove, and Mark Rankin, of Anoka, to fill the places.

It is stated on reliable authority that during the five months the Ferris wheel revolved on Midway plaisance 1,453,611 people paid a total of $726,805.50 to ride. The company paid off bonds amounting to $300,000, and after paying operating expenses and dividing with the exposition, over $150,000 was left for the stockholders.

It is stated that in St. Paul, where the janitor for years has collected the state and lead pencils after the close of each day's session and distributed them indiscriminately each morning that Health Commissioner Hoyt has requested hereafter each pupil retain his own pencils, as there is reason to believe that diphtheria and other diseases have resulted from children's putting in their mouths pencils that have been used by others.

The Journal says the McKinley tariff law must be repealed at once or the people will begin to think it is necessary to the prosperity of the country. From the face of the returns in the late elections one would think that the people had their minds already made up. It is a fact, however, that the democratic party will have to do something terribly desperate before long or the party will be where the populist is now at the next election.

In issuing the usual thanksgiving proclamation Gov. Nelson says: During the year that has passed, we have as a people, been the recipients of innumerable blessings. Our fair state has been especially free from disease and misfortune and peace and happiness have prevailed within her borders. While the earth has not yielded her greatest abundance, our people are yet blessed with moderate and reasonable for their labors. These manifold blessings call for an expression of gratitude to the author of all good from every home in the land.

The latest advice is that Louis Menage, the refugee from Minneapolis, where he was the head of the Northwestern Guarantee Loan company, and was concerned in gigantic speculations is under arrest at Guatemala. He fled the country and was reported to have gone to Chile. Menage was greatly surprised by the arrest. His case resembles that of Weeks, and there is much comment in official circles, as it is known that the prisoner is under serious charges. Menage is cool, but nervous, and will not discuss the case.

The Minnesota state building at Chicago was sold last week for $275, and the Inter Ocean at the time stated the cost of the same to be $8,000, while the people of Minnesota supposed it to be $25,000. The St. Peter Tribune commenting on the matter says:

The total appropriation by the state for Minnesota at the world's fair was $150,000. The managers of the affair will of course publish an itemized account of how the $150,000 was used—this will be necessary in justice to themselves and the general public of the state. The treasurer and auditor of the commission will see to it that a perfect accounting of the receipts and expenditures are made.

N. B. Chase is Recommended. Washington, Nov. 16.—Representative Baldwin has recommended the appointment of N. B. Chase, of Brainerd, Minn., as a timber estimator on the Chippewa Indian reservation.

Now the democrats are getting down to business. If they had selected Minnesota men of the capability of Mr. Chase to start with, there wouldn't have been the trouble there has been over this timber estimating business.

A NICKEL'S WORTH OF RED TAPE.

The Man Who Worked For It Is Wiser Than He Was. "A penny saved is a penny gained," said Donovan Rossa as he stood at the bridge entrance on Sands street, clearing the sweat from his forehead with his handkerchief.

"I picked oakum and broke stones for a living, but I never before sweat so hard at making or earning 5 cents as I sweated today," and here Rossa showed the nickel which was the reward of his labor.

"What do you mean? What is it all about?"

"It means this," said Rossa, "I lost a 5 cent piece yesterday, and I have sweated my life out of myself today looking for it. As I took the first step in the line recovering it I saw that there were many steps more to be taken, so to give myself the experience of the thing I made up my mind to go through the mill and see to the end of it. The story is this: You can use it. It will be information for many a Brooklyn man and woman who occasionally puts a 5 cent piece instead of a 3 cent ticket into the receiving box of the Brooklyn bridge. Yesterday morning I was coming from New York. I was to go to Hancock street on the elevated road. I gave to the ticket seller a 10 cent piece. I got a ticket and a 5 cent piece from him. I threw the 5 cent piece into the chopping box. "Twang gone. He would not let me pass until I threw a ticket in. Then I threw the ticket in. He told me he could not touch what was in the box, but that if I applied to the office, 31 Sands street, Monday morning, I could get my money back. Monday morning I went to 31 Sands street and was told the box of yesterday's receipts had not been opened yet. I went to New York, and coming back from New York now, Monday evening, I thought I may call into the office and get my 5 cents. I did not know, however, that the order of verification from the agent—that is, the ticket seller, and the guardian of the box. Back I came, and as I was going up that stairs, which I thought was the nearest way to go to the ticket seller, a policeman ran after me and told me I could not get up that way. I told him the business I was about and whom I wanted to see. 'Well,' said he, 'you have to go up those stairs, pointing to those three flight stairs on the street. Up I went. I told the ticket seller I wanted an order from him for the 5 cents. He couldn't give an order. I went back to 31 Sands street and told my story. I was told to get from the agent a voucher that I had dropped 5 cents into the box yesterday. I went back to the agent and told my story to him. He had to call the man who had charge of the box yesterday. That man remembered the occurrence. Then it was necessary for him to write a voucher, and hence to do that he sold tickets to passengers from the incoming train was the difficulty. I waited and waited, standing there as train after train unloaded its passengers, the advance crowd of one train catching up to the stragglers of the preceding train. The street was literally bubbling out of me. At last there came a lull in the traffic. The ticket seller called the box guardian, Mr. Ryan. Mr. Ryan stated that he saw me drop the nickel in the box. The ticket seller wrote a voucher for having put a nickel into the cashing box. I took that verification to 31 Sands street. I was directed to the auditor's department. The receiving clerk there took it to the auditor in an inside room and came back with the money and here Rossa showed the 5 cent piece he had worked so hard to recover, remarking that it was the hardest earned nickel he ever saw.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Bacteria. Bacteria are likely to be blamed for all the ills that flesh is heir to. Professor Schenck now maintains that what we call a "cold" is really due to these invisible pests. When one enters a cold room after being heated, the bacteria in it flock to the warm body and enter by the open pores of the skin. Whatever may be said of his hypothesis, he seems to have proved by experiment that bacteria in the neighborhood of a warm body move toward it. The confirmed smoker may derive some comfort from the fact that tobacco is inimical to them.—Exchange.

Longevity Among the Birds.

Small singing birds, technically known as "warblers," live from 15 to 18 years, providing they meet with no accident. Ravens have been known to live for more than 100 years in captivity and parrots even longer. The average life of the common barnyard fowl is 174 years; geese (wild) 100, and swans 50 years. Ornithologists believe that the extraordinary longevity of some species of birds is nature's plan of compensation for their feeble fertility and for the great mortality among their young.—St. Louis Republic.

An Absorbing Theme.

Mr. Jenkins—You ought to be interested in that woman lecturer, Maria. She gave a brilliant address on the suffrage.

Mrs. Jenkins (with avidity)—Of course I'm interested. What did she have on!—Chicago Record.

A Multiple Filament Lamp.

A multiple filament lamp, which has been used for some time in Germany, is thus described: It contains a number of filaments united in common at the upper part. Each half can, therefore, be used with any of the others, thus enabling all but one-half of a filament to be used or broken before the lamp must be renewed. The extra expense of this arrangement, it is said, is much less than the equivalent in new lamps. Furthermore, several of the filaments can be used at once, thus increasing the candle power.—Boston Herald.

Stanley and His Wife.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Stanley have been staying at Killeek, a small seaside resort in County Clare. The natives were much struck with the affections Mrs. Stanley lavished on her husband, and one person observed that "they were more like lovers than husband and wife."—London World.

THE NIGHT WIND.

Have you ever heard the wind go "Yooooo"? It's a playful sound to hear! It seems to shiver you through and through With a strange and specious fear. It's the voice of the night that broods outside When folks should be asleep. And many a man's the time I've cried To the unknown that's been far and wide Over the land and deep.

"Whom do you want, O lonely night, That you wait the long hours through?" And the night would say in its ghostly way, "Yooooooo!" "Yooooooo!" "Yooooooo!"

My mother told me long ago, When I was a little lad, That when the night wind whistled so, Somebody had been bad. And then when I was snug in bed, Whither I had been sent, With the blankets drawn around my head, I'd think of what my mother said. And wonder what boy she meant! "Who's been bad, I'd ask Of the wind that hoarsely blew, And that voice would say in its awful way, "Yooooooo!" "Yooooooo!" "Yooooooo!"

That this was true I must allow— You'll not believe it, I thought, Yes, though I'm quite a model now, I was always so. And if you doubt what things I say, Suppose you make the test. Suppose, when you've been had some day And up to bed are sent away From mother and the rest, Suppose you ask—"Who has been bad?" And then you'll hear what's true, For the wind will murmur in its rustling tone, "Yooooooo!" "Yooooooo!" "Yooooooo!"

—Chicago Record.

The Original Jim Crow.

Talking of "Jim Crow," how many people in Louisville know that the original was a Louisville dandy? It was some time before the war when a famous song and dance comedian, playing an engagement at Louisville, saw from the window of his room a certain dandy who was a character of his day, cutting up the most extraordinary capers to the tune of "Turn About and Wheel About and Jump, Jim Crow."

The comedian, struck by the possibilities of a performance founded upon this original, made or verses to fit this refrain, and thereafter reproduced upon the stage the untutored performance of the original James, to the delight and admiration of thousands. Who the actor was I have forgotten. The dandy's name really was James Crow, and he belonged to a lively stable keeper in whose yard, near the hotel where the comedian was staying, the original Jim Crow dance was performed for the amusement of such as loafed there. I think the hotel was the old Galt House.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

She Swallowed an Umbrella.

A New Castle correspondent to the Pittsburgh Times is responsible for this story: Several days ago a cow belonging to Thomas Jennings of West New Castle became very ill. She refused to eat and seemed to suffer extreme pain. Dr. W. Coleman, a veterinary surgeon, concluded the cow was suffering from the effects of some foreign substance in her stomach. He made a large incision in the cow's side, and in doing so his knife scraped an iron substance. After some little work he succeeded in removing an entire umbrella. The ribs had become loose from the handle and their way through the lining of the stomach. They were easily pulled out, and the handle was next recovered, and to it was clinging the cover of a 24 inch umbrella. How the cow managed to swallow it is a mystery. The cow will recover.

Park Squirrels as Pets.

An interesting scene is witnessed at the Central park zoo at 7 o'clock every morning. Functionally at that hour, rain or shine, a tall, gray haired man of military bearing approaches the wooded lawn just north of the Danmouthe arch and ranges loudly with his cane on the wire railing that borders the path. In an instant a dozen or more nimble gray squirrels spryly climb down the neighboring trees and skip across the grass to the feet of the man who seems to thus exercise a peculiar power over them. The secret of his charm is soon divulged, for he pulls out a handful of peanuts from a capacious pocket and scatters them among his visitors.—New York Letter.

Changes of temperature are now recorded by an electrical apparatus produced by a Frenchman. It is a metal ampulla half full of ether hermetically sealed, and when the temperature arises the ether expands and slightly raises the cover, which completes an electric circuit and rings a bell.

The new congressional library in Washington, will, Librarian Spofford believes, accommodate copies of all the books of the world for 100 years to come and still leave seven-eighths of its available space applicable for other purposes.

An English journal some time ago contained the following announcement: "To be sold, 130 lawsuits, the property of an attorney retiring from business. N. B.—The clients are rich and obstinate."

Maps for the use of farmers, describing the chemical qualities of the land in various parts of the country, and naming the best manures for each section, have been proposed in France.

The hair of a young lady in Sheffield turned white in a single night. She fell into a flour barrel.

The Ocean Telephone Possible.

Professor Silvanus P. Thompson is one of those who believe that ocean telephony is not only possible, but that the means of attaining it are within our grasp. Telephone cables for the deep sea will, however, require to be made on a different plan from the existing telegraph cables—that is to say, a single conductor of stranded copper insulated and surrounded by an iron sheathing that comes between the outgoing wire and the water which serves as the return part of the circuit. The going and return wires will have to be side by side within the sheathing. Moreover, the whole circuit will probably have to be broken up into sections which are capable of acting upon each other by mutual induction.—London Globe.

Cause and Effect.

May—Don't you think that Miss G. is perfectly charming?

Mamma—It struck me that she was a little bit giddy.

May—Why, mamma, she moves in the best circles.

Mamma—That accounts for it. Moving in circles will make any one giddy.—New York Herald.

Helps For Hard Times.

Christmas presents for nothing—handsome and valuable ones too. This sounds good these hard times and the problem seems to have been solved by the weekly Pioneer Press, of St. Paul, Minn. An examination of their extensive premium supplement, just issued, shows a large and tempting assortment of elegant premiums offered to subscribers.

The premiums are all sent post-paid and are guaranteed to be as represented.

The World's Ruler.

Napoleon. Bonaparte was a philosopher as well as a soldier. He said that the pit of the stomach rules the world. When you have something all you for a great while, and cannot eat, you soon see how weak you are when the stomach goes back on you. When your appetite comes back, and you eat your first hearty meal, you feel like a prisoner liberated from his chains. Then you understand fully the value of a good digestive apparatus. However, a good deal depends on the kind of food you put into this digesting machine. If it is half-cooked or ill cooked, poor quality, or insufficient in quantity, the stomach will rebel, and you will have a monkey and parrot sort of a time with it. And nowhere will your comfort depend more on the condition of your stomach, than when traveling. The Burlington, knowing that well-fed passengers are easily taken care of, attaches to its through limited trains, at convenient hours, dining cars, which from the excellence of the menu and the completeness of service, are called "peerless." The Northern Pacific Railroad has Just Put into effect a series of low round trip rate to Pacific coast points. These California tickets are good until April 30th, 1894, and are good for stop over under certain conditions.

These rates will enable those desiring to do so, to spend the winter in Southern California, or to visit the mid-winter fair to be held at San Francisco. This latter event will undoubtedly be second only to the world's fair just closed, and will repay a visit, as it will exhibit the resources and capabilities of California.

EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK IN CONDENSED FORM.

There is a volcano in Guatemala that vomits torrents of "clear, cold, sparkling water." Kautskians avoid it as much as possible.

At Chesterfield, England there is a church with a very curious steeple. Whichever way the observer looks at it it appears to bulge out in that direction.

The Bank of Venice conducted its dealings for 600 years with such honor that in all that time no protest, criticism or condemnation of its methods has been found.

Young women of Germany have a superstition that if they bury a drop of their blood under a rose bush it will ever afterward insure the experimenter a pair of roses checks.

A Canadian has invented a conductor's fare box for use on street railways. It registers every ticket or fare dropped in the slot and deals out dated transfer tickets automatically.

The French council of state has sanctioned a credit of 380,000 francs for the state expenses of the Russian reception. Toulon will be allowed 140,000 of this sum, and 51,000, is set down for the opera performance.

The geological triassic period the Connecticut river valley and, perhaps, the whole eastern portion of what is now the North American continent, was inhabited by a gigantic species of two and four-footed reptiles.

Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes' admirers will be delighted to learn that he is industriously at work on his autobiography. A biography of Holmes by John Holmes would be a disappointment. He alone is fitted to embody the poetry and quaint humor of his career.

The Spaniard, however courteous he may be, never invites a guest to dinner; in Italy, too, the privacy of the family is seldom invaded at the dinner hour; but prefers to do it at his club, while the Englishman is never so genial as when seated at his own table with company surrounding him.

A registered letter that was received at the Portland, Me., postoffice the other day bore a stamp of the $4 denomination. It would have gone for the usual ten cents fee and postage. The stamp-collecting fad was suggested as an explanation, the stamp that had been used being regarded by the enthusiasts as more valuable than an unneeded one.

A Wisconsin newspaper is called on to answer a charge of criminal libel against a town. The paper, which was published at Superior, said there were 150 cases of diphtheria in Iron River, and that the town should be quarantined. There was no such case there, and the city attorney and health commissioner have entered a prosecution.

The army of Xerxes has always been greatly overestimated by historians. Commonly computed at 5,000,000, the best evidence goes to show that, camp followers and all, it did not exceed 1,000,000. His "thousands of ships" numbered only 1,200 to begin with, and of these 400 were lost in a storm, so that he reached the coast of Greece with about 800.

Piracy in the far eastern seas is not a thing of the past by any means. The Peninsular and the Oriental, the Messageries and other China-bound great lines all stipulate in their charters and bills of lading and agreements with passengers that they shall not be held responsible for loss of cargo, pillage or piracy, and serious cases are of frequent occurrence.

The Woman's Suffrage association of Belgium shows, by the latest census held in Europe, that the continent's population comprises 170,818,561 males and 174,914,119 females. The latter's plurality being 4,095,588. Among 16 European nations the female sex predominates most strongly in Portugal and Norway, least in Belgium and France.

So long as the republic of France intercepts a drama because it satirizes a fossilized government with which France is at peace, the charge that that country is a republic only in name may be made with reason. In republics worthy of the name the only difference upon the drama is the now diffuse canon of popular taste. They do not "do everything better over there."

The so-called "Mattheus" war begins to look a good deal like a wholesale machine-gun butchery of natives by mercenary invaders under the guise of self-defense. The self-defense appears to be something on the order of that practiced by France in Siam. "Self-defense," as practiced by European monarchs in conquering weak tribes of unlettered people is a unique abuse of language.

A French method of preserving grapes in something very close to their natural condition has some interest at this season. Shoots of the vine bearing, say two bunches of sound grapes each, are placed in bottles or vases filled with water containing charcoal in solution. The berries are every now and then dipped into the water, and the water is renewed from time to time, grapes so treated will keep in good condition into April.

One distinguishing feature of November is the plunge the earth takes through the meteor zone about the 13th inst. This zone is an immense eddy, containing an immense number of meteors, which make a revolution in about three years. The earth on ordinary years does not encounter the great shoal or swarm, but every thirty-three years she passes through the midst of it, and there is a superb display of celestial pyrotechnics. The meteors are spreading far and wide through the zone or ring, and this seems to indicate that, in the distant future, they will be every now and then. When this takes place the showers will be more nearly equalized—that is, there will be larger showers every year, while the grand display will diminish.

The trial of Ernest Swarthout for the murder of his father has begun at Morris, N. J. It is expected Ernest assisted his brother John in the crime. John died in jail last July.

Milton Fernand and Beaton Kent were arrested in Cleveland on charges of forgery committed in St. Paul. Gross became infatuated with a chorus girl in an opera troupe and followed her about the city, scattering forged paper to keep in funds.

Peter Canica, a young Italian, rushed into a jewelry store at 2150 First avenue, New York, and pointing a revolver at Frank Garfield, demanded $20. The weapon was discharged and the Italian fled, leaving the jeweler's head. Canica was arrested.

AN ATTEMPT NERD WASHINGTON MINN. FOILED.

A man who surprises the bandits is shot and killed, but recovers in time to give the alarm and prevent a train robbery.

Washington, Minn., Nov. 14.—While John Iverson of this place was returning from a visit three miles southwest of here between the hours of 11 and 12 p. m., on the track of the Great Northern, he was startled by a command to halt.

Having about $250 on his person he turned around, and saw two men, who were dressed after him, one passing through his hat and the other holding in his left leg. Iverson fell and lost consciousness.

When he came to he found himself at the bottom of a thirty-foot embankment. He started for Sioux Falls Junction, Minn., where he had a home, and was met by a half-dozen men, who were armed with revolvers and shotguns.

The symposium at the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday evening was very well attended. Quite a number of those who were to take part were unable to be present, but those who were there did justice to their states. All of the speakers tried to prove their state the best place to be born, and the chairman, Mr. J. C. Small in summing up the whole matter said that he thought Canada was good a place as he knew to be born. Some of the speakers were quite witty in their remarks, and all brilliant points were warmly applauded.

The Rosser hospital representatives will canvass the woods for business.

C. M. Patek received a telegram on Monday announcing the death of his nephew, W. D. Patek, head salesman for the Cohen Bros. Co., of Milwaukee. A newspaper which Mr. Patek received from that city later, contained the following in regard to the death: "Late yesterday afternoon Mr. Patek went to the office of Maercklein Bros., to get a tooth pulled. Dr. B. G. Maercklein attended him. After the tooth had been extracted Mr. Patek complained of feeling badly and asked Dr. Maercklein whether he had some brandy at hand. The dentist had no sooner turned around to look for some than Mr. Patek grasped a vial containing about a teaspoonful of carbolic acid and emptied the contents into his mouth. The flask of carbolic acid was used to dip instruments for disinfecting purposes. As soon as Dr. Maercklein saw what the man had done he sent for antitoxins and medical assistance to Alcott's drug store across the street, but in spite of all that could be done Mr. Patek expired in ten minutes. The unfortunate man seemed to think up a plan in a few minutes of his death that his mistake was not serious. It is supposed that Patek believed the vial to contain medicine that would relieve pain."

Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

Successfully Rendered.
On Friday evening last the public were treated to the production of the dramatic cantata of "Ruth" at the opera house by local talent in royal style. It was truly a musical feast, and the large audience which greeted the singers enjoyed the occasion to the greatest extent. The spacious opera house was well filled including all the boxes and the gallery, and the successful manner in which the cantata was rendered was a very pleasing feature. Our people are too conversant with the character of the play for us to give a synopsis of the acts, although the harvest scene, in which the stage was made to represent a harvest field with real grain in sheaves, deserves especial mention.

The principal characters were taken by the following well known local vocalists: Mrs. J. C. Atherton, Mrs. H. Edwards, S. F. Alderman, J. P. Gardiner, Mrs. G. W. Alexander, A. E. Pennell, Miss Maybelle Davis and Miss May Campbell.

That the best talent in the city was represented goes without saying, and in addition to the above over 40 voices were added in the choruses. It is needless to make special mention of any one who took part, as all did so well that partiality would necessarily have to be shown in doing so.

It is probable that the cantata will be reproduced at an early day in this city, and will also be given at Little Falls.

Special School Meeting.
At a special school board meeting held on Thursday evening at the high school building the bid of D. M. Clark & Co., for furnishing storm sash for the Washington school was accepted, the price being $142.46.

The petition from the third ward citizens asking the board not to transfer the grammar grade from the third ward to the second ward, and signed by 51 citizens, was read. The petition was referred to the committee on teachers, asking them to report at the next regular meeting.

The repair committee was authorized to put up the storm sash.

The Odd Fellows have completed arrangements and let the contract for putting in a complete steam heating plant in their building on sixth street. R. H. Paine has secured the contract and will begin work on the improvements at once.

J. M. Elder has been in St. Paul during the week.

One dollar left with J. F. McGinnis & Co. will get you an honest $1.00 worth of goods and a ticket on that beautiful $35 sideboard.

Call at D. M. Clark & Co.'s store and inspect their stock of hardware, crockery, lamps, furniture, carpets, wall paper and everything else in that line. Their prices have been cut to meet the bad times.

Card of Thanks.
I wish to express through these columns, on behalf of the Episcopal church choir, our sincere thanks to all those who attended the dramatic cantata "Ruth the Moabitess" at Sleeper Opera House, last Friday evening, given under the auspices of said choir, and especially to the city press, and to those who aided in the presentation of the cantata, and enabled us to make it the fine success that it proved to be. Their kindness will be cherished in grateful remembrance.

A. J. Coore, Organist.

President Congdon's Protest.
J. C. Congdon, president of the board of education entered the following protest to the proceedings of the board at a special meeting held last Saturday evening, and the business was practically re-transacted last evening in business form:

To the Board of Education, Brainerd School District:
As a member of the board, nor as president of the board, can I approve of the attempt to hold a special meeting of this board and transact business, that without a compliance with the by-laws adopted by this board as to notice of special meetings. I also desire to protest against the unbusiness-like method of doing business, in usurping the rights of the repair committee by taking the business from them, and contracting the same before the said committee reported their work and recommendation to the board. I further desire to say that I absolutely disapprove of doing business or making contracts as pursued by one of said committee, in accepting the bid for storm sash for the Washington building with no specifications by the board. Such a method of doing business would not be adopted by us in doing our own private business, and it would seem to be the duty of this board to take the same care of the interests of the district that they would take for their own interest. For the reasons above set forth, I cannot approve, as president of the board, of any action taken at the meeting of Nov. 11, 1893.

J. C. Congdon.

Always In The Lead
—The Burlington System Carries the Greatest Number of Visitors—
There were three important factors to the exposition—the fair itself, the people and the means of transportation. Of the 34,300,000 through and suburban passengers the Burlington carried 5,060,000. The number passengers carried by six lines leading to the Northwest as taken from the Chicago Inter Ocean, of Nov. 2, is as follows:

Burlington.....5,060,000
Northwestern.....4,500,000
Rock Island.....1,240,000
St. Paul.....628,750
Wisconsin Central.....53,000
Chicago Great Western.....50,000

HENRY I. COHEN.
They Fought A Draw.
A rather small crowd witnessed the 29-round glove contest between Jim McElroy, of Brainerd, and Tom Gleason, of Minneapolis, at the opera house last night. Little Falls has been victimized so many times by fake fighters that it is very difficult now to get an attendance large enough to pay expenses.

A very pretty 3-round go between John S. Barnes, of St. Paul, and Bordeaux, the champion 140-pound pugilist of the Northwest, was the only preliminary event.

Considerable time was occupied in selecting a referee, but finally E. R. Ashton was accepted, and time was called for the first round about 10:15. Both men displayed great caution from the beginning, and up to the sixteenth round but very little damage was done to either, though Gleason seemed somewhat dazed from McElroy's vicious left in the neck in that round. Gleason landed several hard body blows and a few jabs on McElroy's nose neither of which seemed to have any effect. Matters lived somewhat in the eighteenth and Gleason went down to avoid punishment. In the last two rounds Gleason saved himself by clinching, and at the end of the twentieth the fight was declared a draw. It is the general opinion however, that had McElroy forced the fight it would not have lasted ten rounds, for Gleason, though a very clever boxer, lacked force enough to even daze his opponent.—Little Falls Transcript.

Sunday Dedication Services.

On Sunday next at 10:30 a. m. the German

Evangelical church in East Brainerd will be dedicated. The services will be conducted by Bishop Thomas Bowman, of Chicago, who will also preach on Saturday evening previous at the same place. Both services will be in the German language. On Sunday evening a union meeting will be held in the opera house at 7:30, at which time Bishop Bowman will deliver a sermon in the English language. The union choir will furnish the music. The opening prayer at this service will be made by Rev.

Edmunds, which will be followed by introductory remarks from Rev. T. R. Plantikow, of St. Cloud, and remarks from Rev. Norden.

The benediction will be pronounced by Rev.

Geo. West.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend. Bishop Bowman is a gentleman of ability and an able speaker, and as it is his first visit to Brainerd it is hoped a large audience will greet him.

A Week of Surprise.

On Saturday evening last the young friends of Miss Alice Hurley to the number of fourteen surprised her at her father's residence, the occasion being the anniversary of her nineteenth birthday. On the same evening a party of friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Hurley made a surprise also, a sort of a house warming, and the two parties met and proceeded together to the place. A very enjoyable evening was passed, music, dancing and refreshments serving to make a very merry time.

Mrs. Emma French was given a surprise on Saturday evening last at her home in Southeast Brainerd by a large number of friends. A very enjoyable evening was spent.

Mrs. A. E. Pennell was surprised at her home on Saturday afternoon last by a number of her lady friends and a very pleasant time was enjoyed.

A mum social will be given at the

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Successfully Rendered.

On Friday evening last the public were treated to the production of the dramatic cantata of "Ruth" at the opera house by local talent in royal style. It was truly a musical feast, and the large audience which greeted the singers enjoyed the occasion to the greatest extent. The spacious opera house was well filled including all the boxes and the gallery, and the successful manner in which the cantata was rendered was a very pleasing feature.

Our people are too conversant with the character of the play for us to give a synopsis of the acts, although the harvest scene, in which the stage was made to represent a harvest field with real grain in sheaves, deserves especial mention. The principal characters were taken by the following well known local vocalists: Mrs. J. C. Atherton,

Mrs. H. Edwards, S. F. Alderman, J. P. Gardner,

Mrs. G. W. Alexander, A. E. Pennell, Miss

Maybelle Davis and Miss May Campbell.

That the best talent in the city was represented goes without saying, and in addition to the above over 40 voices were added in the choruses. It is needless to make special mention of any one who took part, as all did so well that partiality would necessarily have to be shown in doing so. It is probable that the cantata will be reproduced at an early day in this city, and will also be given at Little Falls.

A Wisconsin newspaper is called on to answer a charge of criminal libel against a town. The army of Xerxes has always been greatly overestimated. It is commonly computed at 5,000,000, the best evidence goes to show that, camp followers and all, it did not exceed 1,000,000. His "thousands of ships" numbered only 1,200 to begin with, and of these 400 were lost in Greece, so that he reached the coast of Xerxes with about 800.

France in the far eastern seas is not a third of the past by our numbers. Among 10 European nations the female sex predominates most strongly in Portugal and Norway, least in Belgium and France.

So long as the republic of France interdicts a drama because it satirizes a fossilized government with which France is at peace, the charge that that country is a republic only in name may be made with reason. In republics worthy of the name the only interdict upon the drama is that which springs from decency and the new drama is a source of popular taste. They do not "do everything better over there."

A French method of preserving grapes in Bordeaux has some interest at this season. Shoots of the vine bearing, say two bunches of sound grapes filled with water containing charcoal in solution. One distinguishing feature of November is the plunge the earth takes through the meteor zone about the 13th inst. This zone is an immense ellipse, containing an innumerable number of meteors, and makes a revolution in about thirty-three days. The earth on ordinary years does not encounter the great shoal or swarm, but every thirty-three years she passes through the midst of it, and there is a superb display of celestial pyrotechnics. The meteors are spreading far and wide, some falling in the air, and this seems to indicate that, in the distant future, they will fall every portion of it. When this takes place the showers will be more nearly equalized—that is, there will be larger showers every year, while the grand display will diminish.

C. M. Patek received a telegram on Monday announcing the death of his nephew, W. D. Patek, head salesman for the Cohen Bros. Co., of Milwaukee. A newspaper which Mr. Patek received from that city later, contained the following in regard to the death: "Late yesterday afternoon Mr. Patek went to the office of Maercklein Bros. to get a tooth pulled. Dr. B. G. Maercklein attended him. After the tooth had been extracted Mr. Patek complained of feeling badly and asked Dr. Maercklein whether he had some brandy at hand. The dentist had no sooner turned around to look for some than Mr. Patek grasped a vial containing about a teaspoonful of carbolic acid and emptied the contents into his mouth. The flask of carbolic acid was used to dip instruments for for disinfecting purposes. As soon as Dr. Maercklein saw what the man had done he sent for antidotes and medical assistance to Alcott's drug store across the street, but in spite of all that could be done Mr. Patek expired in ten minutes. The unfortunate man seemed to think up to within a few minutes of his death that his mistake was not serious. It is supposed that Patek believed the vial to contain medicine that would relieve pain."

Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Successfully Rendered.
On Friday evening last the public were treated to the production of the dramatic cantata of "Ruth" at the opera house by local talent in royal style. It was truly a musical feast, and the large audience which greeted the singers enjoyed the occasion to the greatest extent. The spacious opera house was well filled including all the boxes and the gallery, and the successful manner in which the cantata was rendered was a very pleasing feature. Our people are too conversant with the character of the play for us to give a synopsis of the acts, although the harvest scene, in which the stage was made to represent a harvest field with real grain in sheaves, deserves especial mention. The principal characters were taken by the following well known local vocalists: Mrs. J. C. Atherton, Mrs. H. Edwards, S. F. Alderman, J. P. Gardiner, Mrs. G. W. Alexander, A. E. Pennell, Miss Maybelle Davis and Miss May Campbell.
That the best talent in the city was represented goes without saying, and in addition to the above over 40 voices were added in the choruses. It is needless to make special mention of any one who took part, as all did so well that partiality would necessarily have to be shown in doing so.
It is probable that the cantata will be reproduced at an early day in this city, and will also be given at Little Falls.

ROOT—RODENA—By Rev. Geo. West, on Nov. 9th, Orange Root and Miss Helen Rodena.
Special School Meeting.
At a special school board meeting held on Thursday evening at the high school building the bid of D. M. Clark & Co. for furnishing storm sash for the Washington school was accepted, the price being $142.46.
The petition from the third ward citizens asking the board not to transfer the grammar grade from the third ward to the second ward, and signed by 51 citizens, was read. The petition was referred to the committee on teachers, asking them to report at the next regular meeting.
The repair committee was authorized to put up the storm sash.
The Odd Fellows have completed arrangements and let the contract for putting in a complete steam heating plant in their building on sixth street. R. H. Paine has secured the contract and will begin work on the improvements at once.
J. M. Elder has been in St. Paul during the week.
One dollar left with J. F. McGinnis & Co. will get you an honest $1.00 worth of goods and a ticket on that beautiful $35 sideboard.
Call at D. M. Clark & Co.'s store and inspect their stock of hardware, crockery, lamps, furniture, carpets, wall paper and everything else in that line. Their prices have been cut to meet the hard times.
Card of Thanks.
I wish to express through these columns, on behalf of the Episcopal church choir, our sincere thanks to all those who attended the dramatic cantata "Ruth the Moabitess" at Sleeper Opera House, last Friday evening, given under the auspices of said choir, and especially to the city press, and to those who aided in the presentation of the cantata, and enabled us to make it the fine success that it proved to be. Their kindness will be cherished in grateful remembrance.
A. J. COURT, Organist.

They Fought A Draw.
A rather small crowd witnessed the 20-round glove contest between Jim McElroy, of Brainerd, and Tom Gleason of Minneapolis, at the opera house last night. Little Falls has been victimized so many times by fake fighters that it is very difficult now to get an attendance large enough to pay expenses.
A very pretty 3-round go between John S. S. Barnes, of St. Paul, and Bordeaux, the champion 140-pound pugilist of the Northwest, was the only preliminary event.
Considerable time was occupied in selecting a referee, but finally E. R. Ashton was accepted, and time was called for the first round about 10:15. Both men displayed great caution from the beginning, and up to the sixteenth round but very little damage was done to either, though Gleason seemed somewhat dazed from McElroy's vicious left in the neck in that round. Gleason landed several hard body blows and a few jabs on McE's nose neither of which seemed to have any effect. Matters livened somewhat in the eighteenth and Gleason went down to avoid punishment. In the last two rounds Gleason saved himself by clinching, and at the end of the twentieth the fight was declared a draw. It is the general opinion however, that had McElroy forced the fight it would not have lasted ten rounds, for Gleason, though a very clever boxer, lacked force enough to even daze his opponent.—Little Falls Transcript.
